LEADERS IN DESIGN

@ the Houston Design Center

David DeLaunay / David DeLaunay Interiors

“The Houston Design Center has become a great resource for its one of a kind design items. I appreciate the convenient location as well as being able to drive right up to the entrance of the showrooms.

I find it has a great tenant mix providing many wonderful products in one open-air location. The natural light most of the showrooms enjoy is a plus for me.”

David DeLaunay David DeLaunay Interiors

"I knew I was a Francophile and future decorator when I saw my first issue of Architectural Digest in 1982". That issue featured the iconic Villa Trianon, home of famed early 20th century decorator Elsie de Wolfe. When David DeLaunay was 5 years old, he was already decorating and making draperies out of tissue paper for his sister's dollhouses. David has been decorating and designing homes in Houston and other cities worldwide since 1989 and has lived and worked in both Paris and London, places that were to influence his future work.

David spent 17 years designing and building many urban style townhomes in Houston's Montrose and Midtown neighborhoods. He's able to bring those skills to discussions with his client's architects and builders. David enjoys working with new construction, but at the same time, "I love old houses as well, probably better than anything I could build today" having lived in a 200-year-old French Quarter house in New Orleans.

A "minimalist" he's not and he prefers rooms with color and pattern. "Classic design will always be 'modern,'" says David, "in the sense that you can combine a few choice antiques with comfortable upholstery and modern art".
