BEST DINING ROOM// TERI PUGH STUDIO

For the "morning room" in this three-story Houston townhouse, designer Teri Pugh says she wanted "something that had some glam and a little bit of glitz." Surely breakfast tastes better in a room like this. For starters, there's the custom banquette upholstered in the client's favorite color. Then there's the chandelier from Uttermost, the Haven side chairs from Bernhardt and the glass-top table on chrome sawhorse bases. But maybe the glammest, glitziest piece in the room is the metallic acid-washed cowhide rug. Available through Teri Pugh Studio, the rug adds the perfect amount of sparkle to an already "light, airy, happy space." Who wouldn't want to wake up to that? 7026 Old Katy Road, Suite 156, Houston, 713.581.7975, teripughstudio.com

Ken Kehoe

Top interior design consultant Ken Kehoe brings his vast experience to play in opening Ken Kehoe Showroom in the Houston Design Center, where he offers wonderful lines of fabric, intriguing objets d'art, custom-made lighting and exquisite furniture, including his own creations in the Ken Kehoe Signature Collection, which he designs and has manufactured right in Houston. Local boy done well, Ken was born and raised in Houston, educated in the Hill Country and has friends and family spread across our fair state. He seeks out local artists and craftsmen who create something different, something new and something personal, to add to the mix of pretty things designers love to install in clients' homes.

Ken Kehoe Showroom provides a professional outlet for designers to obtain works from local artists, like Kelly Gale Amen's fantastic unique furniture cast in bronze, Jane Weil's wonderful objet creations in her Vestige line and Lamplight Designs' custom chandeliers and sconces from Mason, TX, as well as Mike Garman's architecturalist furniture and Ken's own eclectic Signature Collection. Plus, the design community welcomes Ken's other lines, which have limited or no other representation in Texas, such as Antoine Proulx's contemporary furniture from Scottsdale, Savel Fabric's chic New York look, Coleman Taylor's richly hand-painted textiles, Prismatek's fine European fabrics, Tania Vartan's imaginative fabric prints and the awesome line of John Saladino's fabrics.

It's a beautiful boutique showroom everyone should visit often, in person or online. 7026 Old Katy Road, Suite 261, Houston, TX 77024

Lucinda Loya

In a word, Lucinda Loya is passionate. Her trademark "eclectic," high-end style has graced the covers of the world's foremost design and décor magazines, showcasing her work from coast to coast.

Always on the cutting edge, Lucinda considers the senses to create a unique perspective, and with every turn there is a delight. She can unite budget-conscious pieces with high-end art, creating a poetic symphony. Her ability to think "out of the box" surpasses her clients' expectations.

Lucinda has grand taste when it comes to interior design but stays enthusiastic and sensible when working with her clients. She possesses a flair of her own and a confidence to match; in turn, the client finds comfort in her knowledge and precision when it comes to selection, taste and balance. Lucinda's playful sense of humor benefits well in decorating, as it adds character and personality to the composition, even in the smallest, unexpected places. She loves to expose her clients' passions and incorporate them with her artistic edge to create a space indisputably unique. Her level of sophistication is second to none, and her dazzle is invigorating. 7026 Old Katy Road, Suite 162, Houston, TX 77024, 713.682.2800, lucindaloyainteriors.com

BOOK IT!

The Houston Design Center's annual Fall Market featured keynote speaker Nancy Braithwaite, the Atlanta interior designer often praised for her streamlined take on traditional Southern style. Houston's Linda Eyles warmly welcomed Braithwaite into her home for an intimate dinner party, at which a handful of industry experts and design aficionados mingled over a delicious meal of smoked salmon and tomato-mozzarella skewers from L'Olivier chef Olivier Ciesielski, who served guests straight from the pan! Braithwaite also signed copies of her new tome, Simplicity. —EW
